SUPPLEMENT TO REPORT NO.

1. Hungarian troop units, not otherwise identified, are in Arad; near the village of Pecica (Western Transylvania); in Oltenia (Wallachia) west of the River Oltul; and south of Craiova, especially near Segarcea. These forces reached Rumania in the early part of 1952.
2. These units and some Bulgarian units, not further identified, maneuvered during September 1952 in association with Rumanian troops. No new equipment was observed. No Soviet troops were observed; however, as this was a test of cooperation between Satellite armies, the general staff in charge of maneuvers was headed by Soviet officers.
3. The cooperation between Satellite armies seems to have been confined strictly to the maneuver area. There were no signs of sympathy or mutual understanding between Rumanian and other Satellite troops and they looked at each other with what appeared to be definite dislike.
